Lucy Suggate is a dance artist and choreographer based in the UK. Making work since 2003 producing articulate and engaging solo dance performances as well as group installations and public choreographies; responding to patterns of awareness, complexity and modes of cooperation and communal embodiment.

Her movement practice is an ongoing inquiry into the perceptual and physical expansion that occurs when engaged in long-term moving and thinking. Lucy's current focus is around finding choreographic iterations from transformative practices and developing reflexive movement-dance-choreographic spaces/models.
